CHRISTMAS HAMPERS FOR NEEDY

A Salvation Army worker keeps a vigil in front of the Kelowna post office today. The annual kettle drive for funds, which began Saturday, means Christmas hampers for needy, complete with cookies, candy and all the great things youngsters enjoy at Christmas. More than 200 hampers were made last year from the funds collected. About 65 per cent of the money from the kettle appeal goes toward hampers and the remainder is used for other work during the year. Four army volunteers are working in one-hour shifts from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Besides the post office location, a red kettle is located at Shops Capri. (Courier photo)

Lawyer Says Companies Were 'One Ball Of Wax'

VANCOUVER (CP) — A lawyer said in British Columbia Supreme Court Wednesday that some of the Commonwealth Group of companies had a deficit of $1,000,000 at the end of 1967. David Sigler, representing the B.C. Securities Commission, made the statement during submissions in a court action involving five Commonwealth companies. The companies, placed under the receivership of accountant A. D. Peter Stanley of Vancouver, are opposing appointment of Mr. Stanley as receiver on a permanent basis. Mr. Sigler said the deficit was on the Dec. 31, 1967, balance sheet of "Commonwealth Investors Syndicate and the associated group of companies at issue here."

The other four firms involved in the court action are Commonwealth Acceptance Corp. Ltd., Centennial Mortgage Corp. Ltd., Evergreen Estates Ltd., and Commonwealth Savings Plan Ltd. A number of other firms over which Mr. Stanley was appointed receiver in the Vancouver-based Commonwealth group were not involved in Wednesday's action.

NO JURISDICTION The companies argued that the securities commission's original order referred only to various individuals trading in company shares and that the court had no jurisdiction to make Mr. Stanley a receiver.

Mr. Sigler, in opposing the companies' position, said the real substance of the case was whether the court could protect the interests of the public. The securities commission lawyer said the affairs of the subsidiary companies are so intermingled they constitute "one ball of wax."

He said Commonwealth Trust Company, which is not in receivership, is the creditor of the subsidiary companies and its investors should be protected.

"BEHIND HIS BACK" Mr. Sigler also claimed that directors of some of the subsidiaries had executed deals "behind Stanley's back" since the accountant was named receiver.

These deals, said Mr. Sigler, are to the advantage of the subsidiaries but to the disadvantage of Commonwealth Trust in which the public's money is invested.

The assets of several Commonwealth companies were frozen several weeks ago by the Supreme Court order that named Mr. Stanley receiver. The court action continues.

No Leak In Moon Rocket Launching Date To Stand

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The United States space agency said today no leak exists in the first stage of the Apollo 8 moon rocket and that the Dec. 21 launching date for man's first journey to the moon still stands. Officials reported Wednesday night a leak had been detected in one of five first-stage engines of the Saturn V rocket that is to boost Col. Frank Borman, Capt. James A. Lovell and Maj. William A. Anders on the historic lunar mission. Engineers and technicians worked on the suspected problem throughout the night, operating the engine under various conditions.

Cominco Given Permission To Export Power To U.S.

OTTAWA (CP) — Cominco Ltd. has been given National Energy Board approval to export British Columbia electric power to the United States on an interruptible basis, the National Energy Board announced today. The board said power sales in the United States must not exceed 125,000,000 kilowatt hours during the balance of 1968 and not exceed 1,500,000,000 kilowatt hours in any single year after that. Before exporting any power at all, Cominco would have to offer to sell such energy to provincially accessible Canadian markets at a price and under terms which are the same as the price and terms upon which such energy could be exported. The power to export would be cut off or reduced whenever it is needed for peaking or peak-to-peak purposes for accessible loads within Canada. The N.E.B. licence would run from Dec. 31, 1967, to Dec. 31, 1970. The power

Powerful Bomb Defused After Telephone Call

MONTREAL (CP) — A dynamite bomb, which police said was powerful enough to blow apart a house, was found early today outside the Rosemount district house of a steel company owner.

It was defused less than two hours before it was set to explode at 3 a.m. at the house of Roger Brochu, owner and president of Standard Structural Steel Ltd.

Police said the bomb consisted of eight sticks of dynamite, two detonators and an elaborate timing mechanism.

They found the bomb against a front basement window of the house after radio station CKAC received a telephone call from a man who said a time-bomb had been planted there.

Alberta Premier Sworn In Today

EDMONTON (CP) — Harry Strom was sworn in as Alberta's ninth premier today.

The ceremony in the office of Lt. Gov. J. W. Grant MacEwan took just under 50 minutes from the moment of E. C. Manning's arrival to submit his resignation after 25 years, six months and 12 days in office.

12-Hour Battle In Vietnam

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. marines and North Vietnamese troops battled for 12 hours today, and the heavy fighting spilled over into the demilitarized zone, the U.S. military command reported.

Twelve marines and eight North Vietnamese were killed and 30 marines were wounded, the command said.

Two Policemen Slain After Call To House

MINDEN, Ont. (CP) — Two provincial police officers were shot and killed at point-blank range as they walked towards a man barricaded in a house near here Wednesday night. William Norman Pratt, 35, of Minden, today was charged with two counts of capital murder in the shooting. The penalty of conviction of capital murder is death.

Pratt appeared in court at nearby Lindsay and was remanded to Dec. 19 for preliminary hearing. No bail is granted on a murder charge.

Pratt, about 5-foot-5 in height and weighing 150 pounds, has curly brown hair and wears a beard. The slain officers were 39-year-old Detective-Sergeant Lorne Chappis and Cpl. James Smith, 42, both of the Peterborough provincial police detachment.

Police said a man who had barricaded himself in his parents' home on South Lake Road six miles east of Minden asked to speak to four constables.

When Det.-Sgt. Chappis and Cpl. Smith got to within eight feet of the house, a police statement said, the man inside opened fire. Both officers were killed.

Two other constables, one of whom had entered the house through a rear window, overpowered the man after a struggle, police said. The shootings occurred about 9 p.m. EST.

The police detachment had been sent to the scene some hours earlier from Peterborough, 45 miles east of Minden, after a woman complained that a man was threatening to shoot her and her son.

For five hours the man, who waved a .44-calibre rifle through a doorway, held the officers at bay. By 9 a.m., more than a dozen police constables surrounded the house—a summer cottage—and Det.-Sgt. Chappis and Cpl. Smith, a tear-gas expert, were preparing to lob gas shells through the windows. The man then said he would speak to four officers. Det. Chappis and Cpl. Smith walked towards him with Constables Barry Connelly and Mike Maher following.

Two shots were fired and the two officers fell dead. Constables Connelly and Maher grabbed the man. The slain officers did not display weapons.

Det.-Sgt. Chappis, who recently had passed his examinations for promotion to inspector, is survived by a wife and three children. Cpl. Smith had a wife and son.

The man alleged to have done the shooting was described as a drifter who recently returned to Minden. Police in Peterborough said the man's mother and brother were in the house when constables arrived in response to a complaint from the mother.

The mother had left the house earlier to swear out a warrant against her son, named in the warrant as William Norman Pratt. The warrant charged Pratt with assault.

As the officers arrived, a shot was fired from the house and the police scattered to begin the siege.

Shortly before 9 p.m., police said, the man in the house called out: "Look, I want to talk to four of you guys."

Det.-Sgt. Chappis and Cpl. Smith walked towards the house. They shouted to the man inside that they had no guns and extended their arms to show that they were unarmed.

An OPP staff officer said the rifle used in the slayings: "You don't live long when you're shot by something that big."

Man Caught Immediately And Charged With Murder

MONTREAL (CP) — Dr. Andre Grenier, 39, convicted of criminal negligence in the deaths of three patients who received injections of his "youth serum" last year, was sentenced today to three years in penitentiary.

Mr. Justice Ignace Deslauriers said in imposing sentence that Dr. Grenier had "dishonored his profession."

He sentenced the doctor to concurrent three-year terms on each of three criminal negligence charges.

The maximum sentence for criminal negligence is life imprisonment. Mr. Justice Deslauriers said, however, that Dr. Grenier could not be regarded as a common criminal. There were excellent chances for rehabilitation.

Dr. Grenier was convicted of negligence Wednesday. A 12-man jury deliberated for nearly an hour before returning the guilty verdict. The three victims—Normand Sauve, 46, Pierrette Rivest, 31 and Marie-Louise DeGrandpre, 74—died of gas gangrene after receiving injections June 3, 1967.

Crown Prosecutor Andre LeDoux argued during the trial that Dr. Grenier lacked the necessary experience to prepare and administer the "rejuvenation" serum, made from fetuses taken from freshly-slaughtered ewes.

Defence lawyer Marcel Turgeon appealed for acquittal on grounds that Dr. Grenier's conduct was that of an honest, serious doctor. He described the whole affair as "an accident, a technical error."

Russia Reduces Naval Force

LONDON (AP) — The Soviet Union has reduced its naval force in the Mediterranean, United States naval sources said in London today. They added the reduction might be seasonal and temporary. "The Russians now have fewer warships in the Mediterranean than they had earlier in the year," said the sources.

Senators Query Legislation

OTTAWA (CP) — Senators studying draft legislation today to control unfair competition from imports questioned the power the bill would leave to government officials in deciding whether imports were dumped—sold at less than fair value.

Rumor Ends Italian Crisis

ROME (AP) — Mariano Rumor became premier today and ended a 24-day Italian government crisis. Rumor, 51-year-old leader of the Christian Democrats, told President Giuseppe Saragat he would head a new centre-left coalition to replace the one that collapsed in bitterness and disputes six months ago.

VANCOUVER ELECTIONS

Landslide Victory For Campbell

VANCOUVER (CP) — Mayor Tom Campbell, the rambunctious, sideburned "Tom Terrific" of West Coast politics Wednesday night won a second term as the city's chief magistrate with a landslide victory over six other opponents.

Mr. Campbell, who once a led where else "could a man with a big mouth and a million dollars get elected mayor, said he defeated Albin Emond, mayor of Stanley for 11 years.

The final count gave Mr. Campbell 63,033 votes to Mr. Emond's 41,956. Alderman Peter Graham, running as an independent, was a distant third.

Four other independents trailed about 3,000 votes among them in the mayoral race.

Mr. Campbell, 41, said he reaped the benefits of a "terrific" personal contribution of the city's business and professional community.

He said he would use his new mandate — "a big stick" — to keep a hand of head-tongue at the city's budget. The mayor had tangled publicly and privately with just about all of them.

A son of a policeman who made a fortune in apartment construction before he entered politics, Mr. Campbell first won the mayoralty in 1966 from incumbent William Rathie.

His publicity stunts, which included a full-blown rat hunt on the Vancouver waterfront with the family cat in tow, earned him the nickname "Tom Terrific."

In other election developments, the Board of Education in Vancouver, and 14 other

One Conference Postponed Other Goes As Scheduled

OTTAWA (CP) — There is general agreement that the federal-provincial constitutional conference convene in early February, Prime Minister Trudeau said today in the Commons. Finance Minister Edgar Benson said the federal-provincial conference of finance ministers scheduled for Dec. 19 will likely go ahead on that date.

The constitutional conference had been scheduled to open Monday until the sudden illness of Quebec Premier Jean-Jacques Bertrand.

Mr. Trudeau said in reply to Opposition Leader Robert Stanfield that all provinces except one accepted the idea of a conference postponement as requested by Quebec.

He did not name the province but it is known to be British Columbia.

Mr. Trudeau said one province cannot see it was clear for a February meeting but that he hopes some suitable arrangement can be worked out. Again, he did not name the province.

The prime minister said in reply to Lincoln Alexander (PC—Hamilton West) that some provinces have asked that the federal government's official languages bill not be passed by Parliament before the constitutional conference.

As a result, debate on the bill would be postponed at least a month.

Mr. Trudeau said it may be possible to put the bill through every stage except third and final reading before the constitutional conference.

David Macdonald (PC—Egmont) asked that the federal government's position papers on the constitution be made public in sufficient time before the conference so that there could be public discussion of the issues.

Mr. Trudeau said this will be considered after a new date for the conference is set.

Lower Mainland Communities That Drain 'Hot' Water Supply From The Greater Vancouver Water District

The 14 outlying municipalities voted 56.8 per cent in favor of fluoridation, but a 60 per cent majority was required. In Vancouver, the vote was about 50 per cent in favor.

Rebels from the outlying municipalities were completed for voting on the issue — wide municipal elections last Saturday but were withheld pending the outcome of the Vancouver vote.

A $15,000,000 school construction bill, however, was approved by a margin of about 61 per cent.

The red-hot mayoralty race and the fluoridation vote brought Vancouver voters out in near-record numbers. Election officials said about 43 per cent of those eligible cast ballots.

At least one polling station ran out of ballots. The Non-Partisan Association board position maintained the firm grip on civic politics it has held since the Second World War. In addition to the mayoralty post, NPA-backed candidates won eight of the 19 aldermanic seats, six of nine school board positions, and a total of seven party board seats.

Incumbent Hugh Brad, former Vancouver fire chief, topped the aldermanic poll for the fourth straight time. Other NPA candidates elected were Marianne Landolt, Ed Seccombe, Earle Adams, Halford Wilson and Elaine Brown. All incumbents plus Brian Calder and Everett Crowley, incumbent Harry Runk, running under a socialist banner, easily won reelection.

The Electors' Action Movement, making its first bid in civic politics, placed Walter Handwork on council. The new organization also won three seats on the city's and a party board position.

Traffic Light At Ethel And Harvey

A system of stop and go flat top lights, installed Wednesday at Ethel Street and Harvey Avenue, will be operating Friday morning.

Electrical superintendent Ted Guy said today the intersection will be controlled by flashing lights until then.

The intersection has been controlled by a flashing amber and red light, but increasing traffic prompted the move to a full control system.

The new lights are being financed jointly by the city and the department of highways. Traffic signs warning motorists of the new lights will be posted on Harvey and Ethel.

The new lights will be installed on the Harvey and Ethel intersection. The new lights will be installed on the Harvey and Ethel intersection.

Nixon Names His Cabinet

WASHINGTON (CP) — President-elect Richard Nixon Wednesday night named an all-Republican cabinet dominated by close personal associates.

Nixon presented his 12-man team, most of them virtually unknown on the national scene, to the country in an unprecedented television broadcast.

The new cabinet included a leading member of Congress, three Republican governors, a lieutenant-governor, two prominent academics and two former high officials in the last Republican administration.

But there were no Democrats and no Negroes on the list—testimony to Nixon's failure to form the broad coalition government he originally sought in his bid to end countrywide divisions over the war in Vietnam and racial conflict at home.

State secretary will be William P. Rogers, 55, a close friend of Nixon's whose experience is almost entirely outside the field of foreign policy.

Nixon pinpointed Rogers, Representative Melvin R. Laird (Rep. Wis.), the new defence secretary and Wall Street lawyer John N. Mitchell, the new attorney-general, as the three top officials who will sit with him on the National Security Council and weigh life-and-death foreign policy decisions.

Another close associate of Nixon in the cabinet will be Lt. Gov. Robert H. Finch of California who managed Nixon's unsuccessful 1960 race for the White House. He will be secretary of health, education and welfare.

Nixon's treasury secretary will be David M. Kennedy, 63, chairman of the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust Co. of Chicago and one of the leading economists and fiscal experts in the U.S.

Nixon tapped the statehouses of Michigan, Massachusetts and Alaska for three cabinet recruits.

Gov. Walter J. Hickel, 49, of Alaska will be interior secretary; Gov. John A. Volpe, 60, of Massachusetts will be transportation secretary and Gov. George Romney, 61, of Michigan, an early contender for the Republican presidential nomination this year, will be secretary of housing and urban development.

The two academics in the cabinet will be Dr. Clifford H. H. Harlin, 53, chancellor of the University of Nebraska, as agriculture secretary and George P. Shultz, 47, dean of the University of Chicago Graduate School of Business, as labor secretary.

The new commerce secretary will be Maurice H. Stans, 60, a New York banker who was budget director in the Eisenhower years.

Nixon named as postmaster-general Winston M. Blount, 47, president of a building company in Montgomery, Ala., and president of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce.

Gravel-Voiced Stage Star Dies

NEW YORK (AP) — Tallulah Bankhead, 65, the gravel-voiced Southern belle who became a stage star, movie siren, and eventually one of the leading American character actresses—and characters—died today.

Miss Bankhead had been ill only a few days, a victim of the current epidemic of flu. Pneumonia developed and led to her death, said her business manager, Ezra Schine.

Her sister, Eugenia Bankhead, and nephew, Billy Bankhead, were with her at her death.

Government Stands Firm On House Times Issue

OTTAWA (CP) — The Liberal government stood firm Wednesday against another Commons onslaught aimed at its move to gain the right to allocate time for parliamentary debates.

David Lewis, the NDP parliamentary leader, called on the government to shelve the proposal for this session to see how co-operation works in planning House business.

He promised his party's co-operation in allocating debating time through free discussion on an all-party proceedings committee.

If it doesn't work, the NDP would be prepared to listen to government proposals to tighten the rules.

Conservatives, the official Opposition, showed their solidarity on the issue with the NDP by applauding Mr. Lewis vigorously throughout his attack on the government measure.

A former Commons Speaker, Marcel Lambert (PC—Edmonton West) said the time-allocation rule would jeopardize the role of the Speaker, who would become the servant of the government, not the House as under the present system.

Despite the opposition arguments, Donald Macdonald, the government House leader, gave no hint of a pullback on the proposal, part of a rules-reform package for Parliament.

Mr. Lambert called the time proposal "the most vicious, dastardly attack" ever perpetrated on Parliament. It would give "unbridled licence" to the Liberal government.

Mr. Lewis said this kind of power cannot be given to "a small group of men to control, subvert and destroy Parliament."

Bennett Feels Conference Should Start As Schedule

VANCOUVER (CP) — Premier W. A. C. Bennett of British Columbia said Wednesday night next week's federal-provincial constitutional conference should start as scheduled despite the illness of Quebec Premier Jean-Jacques Bertrand.

Premier Bertrand earlier

Wednesday asked Prime Minister Trudeau to postpone the conference, scheduled to start in Ottawa Monday, until he is able to attend.

"I believe as premier of B.C. that this conference should go on," Premier Bennett said in an interview. "It might not last as long as it otherwise might have had the premier of Quebec been able to attend."

However, the Social Credit premier said he would abide by whatever decision the rest of the premiers reach.

Mr. Bennett said he, like the rest of Canada's provincial premiers, regretted Mr. Bertrand's illness.

"But I really believe all the rest of the premiers in Canada had their opening statements ready, so they could be presented in any case."

"This won't be the only conference on constitutional matters. This is a big problem and there are many differences of opinion across our nation. It is a tremendous thing to change our constitution basically."

TODAY'S STOCK QUOTATIONS

TORONTO (CP) — The surge to new high ground continued in active trading on the Toronto Stock Exchange today.

By mid-morning the industrial index was up .42 to a record at 189.58. The western oil index was also at an all-time high.

Banks and steels led the industrial list. Toronto-Dominion Bank gained 1/4 to 22 1/2, Dofasco 1/2 to 23 1/4 and Bank of Montreal 1/4 to 16 1/2.

Leigh Instruments rose 1 1/2 to 46 1/4, Cominco 1 1/2 to 39 1/2, Security Capital B 1 to 12 1/2 and Kaps Transport 1 to 18.

New Providence Development, the most active industrial picked up 5 cents to $2.25. The stock was newly-listed on the TSE Wednesday.

Bell and Du Pont lost 3/4 each to 48 3/4 and 36 1/4.

Among western oils and mines, Dome Pete gained 2 to 89, Kerr Addison 1/4 to 18 1/2 and Ranger 40 cents to $9.90.

Rayrock dropped 25 cents to $3.00 after reporting slightly lower annual earnings. Northgate slipped 1/4 to 15. Nine-month profits rose to $1.24 a share from $1.12 last year.

Exceptional Child A Special Problem

A program of education and personal development should be established for retarded children which would be cognizant of their inner resources and dependent on the co-ordinating and supportive influence of the community.

This was the consensus of a panel discussion Wednesday at Kelowna Secondary School which examined problems of the "exceptional child."

Moderator of a panel comprised of Dr. Robert Poutt, assistant professor of the special education department UBC; Mrs. Dorothy MacEachern, executive director of the O'nanagan Neurological Association; Herb LaBounty, supervisor of pupil personnel services, school district 23 and Jack Arrand, director of the retarded children's association was Dr. Charlotte David, professor of education and medicine at UBC.

Dr. Poutt took an ecological look at the problem. "All of us, not only the exceptional child, have inner resources which are trying to balance with the environment. The task in education is to create a system which is flexible and can be modified on the basis of collected data on the individual child, slowly enabling him to perceive his own behavior and to control his actions."

Through precision teaching content the environment could slowly be manipulated to suit the retarded child.

Dr. Poutt envisions development of huge schools with facilities for normal and retarded children in close proximity. A buddy system could be introduced he said, whereby through integration, the retarded and normal child would play, work and learn together.

Parents would be encouraged to develop programs and along with high school students working with the exceptional child a larger portion of the community would be involved, he said.

"Normal and retarded children would grow up together, he said.

Mr. Arrand, a parent of a retarded child, cited the extra burden placed on parents through developments in the family which place less emphasis on it as a communal body and whose members now rely on peer relationships and the community for support.

"The difference in the family unit has increased problems of the retarded child," said Mr. Arrand. In the past, the handicapped member of a family would be cared for by a brother or sister. In many cases it was a healthier situation. But with smaller families now the handicapped have lost this support and compared with the normal child are placed in unnatural situations.

The approach would be to substitute a force, the panel suggested, which would provide support once provided by the traditional family.

"Any parent of a retarded child knows the agony which precedes initial acceptance," said Mr. Arrand. "It can reach extreme proportions."

"Because the child is an extension of ourselves," said Dr. David, "we have wishes for him to be perfect. To know he is less than perfect is something to accept."

The supportive function of a community which assisted, rather than retarded the growth of the exceptional child would involve a re-assessment of western values which attach so much importance to competitiveness.

Some of the myth which has surrounded the retarded child and the stigma attached to retardation may be gradually disappearing, said Dr. Poutt.

"Students have more contact with retardation," he said. The retarded child is coming closer to reality in the minds of many people.

The panel concluded that much could be accomplished by establishing more relevant programs and through changes in attitudes, which would facilitate the supportive influence of society on the handicapped.

"You slowly plant the seed. It may lie dormant, but eventually grows," said Dr. David, referring to the spread of new ideas on helping the exceptional child.

The workshop, attended by about 60 people, was sponsored by the Kelowna branch of the Canadian Mental Health Association, the B.C. Mental Retardation Institute, the Association of Retarded Children of B.C. and the adult education department of school district 23 (Kelowna).

Dr. David and Dr. Poutt are touring the area this week.

SEEN and HEARD

Ballots are still needed to make the Kelowna Chamber of Commerce annual election a success. Chamber manager Bill Stevenson today reminded the more than 800 chamber members that Friday is the deadline for returning mail ballots, which will decide the 1969 executive. Results of balloting are expected to be revealed Monday.

Was this raffle fixed? Rotary club members and their wives who worked throughout the evening at the annual senior citizens' Christmas party Wednesday had an opportunity to win a left over cooked turkey.

Joan Webb, wife of the president and a hard worker in organizing the affair, made the draw. She paused for a minute before reading the name of the winner... Joan Webb.

The brass is here. Paying a routine visit to the Kelowna RCMP detachment today is Superintendent E. A. F. Holm, in charge of the Kamloops sub-division.

One of the city's postmen has a novel complaint, but one that should bring a nod of sympathy from many. Glancing at his watch early today, he heaved a sigh and said, "This working between meals is getting to be a drag."

One old gentleman who attended the Rotary Christmas party for senior citizens Wednesday, said he remained in bed until 4 p.m. as he would have plenty of energy to enjoy the party which started at 7 p.m. and ended just after 9.

Colored Christmas trees other than the traditional green and silver metals are becoming popular this year. An impressive display of the approved trees is located at the northeast corner of the Harvey Avenue-Abbott Street intersection, but who ever heard of a pink fir tree?

SNOW is forecast for the Okanagan Friday.

Today should be mainly cloudy with a few snowflakes, cloudy Friday with occasional snow in the morning. Little change in temperature is expected and winds should be light.

The low tonight and high Friday should be 22 and 37.

The low and high recorded in Kelowna Wednesday were 22 and 38, compared with 20 and 38 on the same date a year ago.

Kelowna Shoplifters Most Often Caught

Motorists Pay For Bad Habits

Kelowna motorists picked up some bad habits during the six-week strike of the city's employees—habits that are giving the special traffic officers grey hairs.

In the first five working days after the strike, the traffic officers issued more than 300 parking tickets, according to Ken Preston, in charge of the department.

He said during the strike, motorists were completely ignoring parking regulations downtown because no one was on duty to issue tickets.

The problem, he believes, is compounded by heavy traffic due to Christmas shopping. Motorists are urged, especially on Friday evenings and all day Saturday, to use off-street parking lots to help ease congestion on Bernard Avenue.

RCMP report a quiet night in the city, with only two car accidents investigated, both without injuries.

Rene Gay, Westbank, and Samuel Shench, Graham Road, were drivers in a two-car crash on Lakeshore Road Wednesday at 5 p.m. Police had no details on the accident, but said damage was about $250.

Duane Metz, Aldergrove, lost control of his car on Lakeshore Road near Gyro Park Wednesday at 12:30 p.m. The car crashed into a utility pole, resulting in $400 damage to the vehicle and $200 damage to the pole.

Stores Sometimes Helped By Sharp-Eyed Customers

By DOUG MACDONALD, Courier Staff Writer

"Hey you! Stop! The manager wants to talk to you."

Oops caught red-handed stealing pockets-full of articles from a store. The store clerk was waving and running at me as I hastily stashed the stolen goods in the car. I gave up, held out the stolen goods like a peace offering and followed the clerk back into the store.

"I was just on my way in for another load anyway," I joked.

The episode could have ended in a police cell, if I had been any ordinary shoplifter. But I had arranged the theft in advance with the manager of a large department store in the city to discover his problems with light-fingered people at Christmas time.

The manager of the store—who won't be named in this story—was grinning from ear to ear; he had a surprise for me.

"It wasn't one of my employees that spotted you," he said, "it was another shopper; he saw you and reported to me."

This tended to bear out his earlier assertion that Kelowna citizens are basically honest—that the city does not have as high a rate of shoplifting as other cities.

The manager also had a dubious compliment for me. "You must be pretty good at you were the fastest he ever saw."

In actual fact, I was anything but fast—I was downright clumsy. Even though I knew the stealing expedition would end with nothing more than a talk with the manager, I felt like a nervous Clyde Barrow. As I wandered about the aisles of the store, trying to spot floor watchers and items small enough to stick in my pockets, I felt like I had a sign reading CRIMINAL over my head.

First I tried for a rolling pin. After poking myself in the ribs a few times I discovered it wouldn't fit in my breast pocket; it stuck out like an extra arm.

Then I spotted a small metal toy truck. Perfect. I reached for it, picked it up, reached for my pocket. I dropped it on the floor with a crash, lost my nerve and put it back.

Eventually I managed to stuff a hunting knife, several pairs of socks and a wooden ashtray in my pockets, then headed out of the store, waiting for a firm hand to clamp down on my shoulder.

As an experiment, the shoplifting was interesting. But the real thing is the stuff nightmares are made of for store owners.

"It's hard to really pin down; we don't know for sure how much we've lost until inventory in January," one department store manager told me. "But I have a feeling it's on the increase this year."

Others had different opinions. The manager of the store I had pilfered said last Christmas—the worst time of the year for shoplifters—he had had the lowest loss of theft of any of the Canadian chain to which his store belongs.

Most Plan Ahead Of Time

"We don't seem to have the professional type of shoplifter in the city," he added.

Who are the shoplifters? Mostly women, one manager said. Teen-age girls stealing cosmetics they can't afford, but need to keep up with the styles, said another. Few are impulse shoplifters; most plan ahead of time, said one manager.

The most popular items—small things, easily slipped into pockets. Cosmetics and wallets seem to be at the top of the list. And one manager said, for no reason he can figure, one particular brand of cosmetics is more "attractive" to shoplifters than others.

"We try to control the problem by giving good service," the manager said. "We try not to leave people standing around. This helps."

Some managers complain they simply do not have the staff to cover their floor space effectively. "I could stop the problem tomorrow," said a department store manager. "I could lock all the doors but one and put a guard on it to check people going out." He added this would be equivalent to going out of business in a big hurry.

"You have to balance public relations with security."

He said a store employee cannot stop a customer for shoplifting unless he is absolutely sure the person stole something. And this is difficult.

When I tried to arrange my shoplifting experiment with one manager he said no and give this reason: "Frankly, I know you could get away with it; we just haven't got the control of the problem we would like."

After I had been "turned in" by one of the store's customers, the manager said this is a help to him. "People think when we are really busy they can get away with it; but the shopper beside them is an element they don't seem to count on."

He also offered a possible explanation why this type of crime is prevalent. "After all, merchandise is displayed in a tempting way; it's there to make you want it; we want you to pick it up."

They also want you to pay for it.

Kelowna Firm Successful In School Additions Bid

Douillard Construction of Kelowna has been awarded the contract for seven additions to school district 23 elementary schools.

However, the board of trustees is still awaiting approval from the department of education.

The bid of $401,675 was lower than two others: $477,700 by David Howrie of Vernon and W. H. Taylor Construction of Penticton, which bid $435,162.

Tenders were called Nov. 29 as a result of a meeting Oct. 21 between representatives of the department of education, including Education Minister Donald Broderick, and officials of school district 23, at which time the go ahead was given.

The money for the projects was included in the $4,500,000 referendum passed in May.

The additions will be designed on a mass production basis with identical equipment and by using one contract school officials believe the price will be lower.

The revised schedule of accommodation calls for two rooms and a new library at Lakeview Heights school; three new classrooms at Westbank elementary; four new classrooms and an extended library at Martin Avenue elementary.

Also two classrooms at the South Rutland school; two classrooms and additional storage facilities at the West Rutland school; three new classrooms at Dorothea Walker and four classrooms and additional office accommodation at the Wood Lake school.

The projects were delayed by the provincial government's cut-back on school construction and the tight money policy.

Co-ordinating architects for the projects, scheduled to be completed by Easter, are Meiklejohn, Gower and Fulker, Mill Street.

Not Quite So Much Snow Overnight On B.C.'s Roads

Three inches of new snow fell in the Monashee Pass the department of highways said in its report to 7:30 a.m. today.

The temperature was 14 degrees. There was some black ice and compact snow reported. The road was plowed and sanded.

Highway 97 was bare and dry with some slippery sections sanded. Kelowna-Beaverdel was mostly bare and dry at the lower levels, with compact snow and slippery sections sanded at the higher levels.

The Vernon-Lumby road was mostly bare with some black ice sanded. Similar conditions were reported from Lumby to Cherryville.

In the Rogers Pass, Revelstoke to Golden, light snow had fallen. The road was plowed and sanded and was in good driving condition. Golden to Banff gate no snow had fallen, the road has been plowed and sanded and the temperature was 10 below at the Divide.

Banff gate to Calgary was bare. The road was in good winter driving condition, with the temperature two below.

Kamloops to Salmon Arm to Revelstoke was mostly bare with some slippery sections which had been sanded. At Griffin Lake, west of Revelstoke in the 10 mile to 17 mile area the wind was blowing snow across the road, resulting in a polished slippery road surface.

In the Fraser Canyon area light snow had fallen. The road was mostly bare with some slippery sections, sanded. Two inches of new snow had fallen in the Allison Pass, with a compact snow road which had been plowed and sanded.

Motorists were advised to use winter tires or carry chains in the Fraser Canyon area, from Banff gate to Calgary, in the Allison Pass and to use winter tires and carry chains on the Kelowna - Beaverdel highway and in the Monashee Pass.

Stiff Contest But He Won

An Okanagan student was a winner in the international forest fire prevention poster contest judged at the Western Forestry Conference in San Francisco, Dec. 4.

He was Richard Macklin, a student at Dr. Knox Secondary School.

Richard won first prize in the senior division among contestants from Washington, Oregon, California, Montana, Idaho and British Columbia.

More than one half million youngsters participate in the program and finalists from each area are judged annually at the Western Forestry Conference.

STUDENTS AT OC

Freedom, Low Cost And A Challenge

Ed Alfke, from Dawson Creek, arrived in Kelowna last September with no definite plans. But that was soon changed.

Just finished grade 13, he thought he might take a job and leave his education for a while. Walking along the street he saw a sign that announced "Okanagan College." He walked in "out of curiosity" and before he knew it he had signed up for classes.

"I talked to the principal, Dr. Grant," he explained. "The idea of the college really impressed me. I liked the freedom the students have."

"So I joined."

This story is, admittedly, not the usual one for students signing up for classes at the college, but the spirit of freedom that attracted Ed was a selling factor in a number of students' minds.

The Dawson Creek student went on to become leader of a temporary student government at the college, and is now public relations co-ordinator of the permanent student government.

"Why do students enrol at the college, which is still struggling to get on its feet? Money is one of the main reasons, and a chance to study in their home town."

"A lot of the kids like the idea of staying at home," Alfke says. "And it's a lot cheaper, too."

Tuition for in-town students is $100 for the full year of courses—out-of-town students pay twice as much.

Kelowna students is $85. "I pay $100, but I'm getting special treatment," he added, as a compliment to his landlady.

Many students take part-time jobs, claims Alfke, who works weekends at a supermarket in the city. Bakeries, restaurants and large stores are where most work.

For another out-of-town student, Joan Holler of Summerland, coming to Okanagan College was even cheaper. "I'm actually making money on it," she claims.

She said she received about $300 in scholarships at the end of grade 12, and paid only $250 for tuition and books. In addition, she is given $1 a day travel allowance by the college.

Joan, who is also on the student government, had planned to attend university in Vancouver until she heard about the college last Easter.

"I figure it would have cost me about $2,000 a year to go to the Coast," she says. She adds she is glad for several other reasons she chose the college.

Is it worth it? Is the college living up to students' expectations?

Miss Holler, who plans to continue her education in nursing at UBC next year, says yes—"in most ways."

"I like it here; Kelowna is a nice city. Some of the courses are poorly taught though," she claims. "We have to do a lot of work on our own."

Alfke says he is glad to be in at the start of the college, while students have a chance to help build it. "Things are really starting to get in the works."

For most students, Okanagan College—which offers the equivalent of first and second-year university—is an inexpensive way to an education and a chance to stay close to home.

Short Takes

The proposed New Caledonia college at Prince George was turned down last week by the voters of the area. The idea of a college was not turned down, it was the financial arrangements necessary to found the college that did not gain support. This is not the first time this has happened to a proposed college in this province. More and more it becomes evident that the provincial government must change its financial policy regarding colleges if this province is to have these very necessary additions to its educational system.

Most people surely will line up behind the opposition in the House of Commons against the government's proposal that it should have the power to limit the discussion period on any debate. It is quite true as Mr. Trudeau said that the people want no more of long-drawn-out debates such as the flag debate and that such debates only put Parliament in disrepute. However, there are few persons who think the government should have the arbitrary right to say the opposition has only so long to present its case on any subject, and that is just what the government's proposal does mean. It would stifle free speech at the whim of the government. With this rule in force, why bother to elect Parliament? It could be nothing more than a rubber stamp. The proposal is frightening. We would be frightened to have Mr. Trudeau have such power—or Mr. Stanfield or Mr. Diefenbaker, or Mr. Douglas or any other mortal man. This could be the first step to dictatorship.

The new math may not be suited to modern needs for mathematical skills, suggests the magazine Canadian University in a report on a recent mathematical conference in Ottawa. The head of the math department of Algonquin College maintains that high schools are graduating students with a low mathematical skill—they can't do things like simple interest, percentage and fraction problems even though through some of the techniques used in the new math they might have high abstract mathematical skill.

At the end of October there had been 242 housing starts in Kelowna in 1968. This was second in the province being exceeded only by Prince George's 280. Kamloops had 111; Penticton 146; Vernon 73. Kelowna ran second in the province also in housing completions in the year to the end of October. It had 295 against Prince George's 309. Kamloops had 138; Penticton 176 and Vernon 115. Kelowna had 99 housing units under construction on October 31. In this category Kamloops had 41; Penticton 39 and Vernon 29. The moral, if any, which can be drawn from the figures is that Kelowna's steady growth over the years has continued this year; it has never been boom or bust, but just steady. The figures also suggest that the Kamloops spurt ended this year and now both Kelowna and Penticton are exceeding the Kamloops figures.

Dave Chapman might have asked for a review of the spoiled ballots in the election which he lost by two votes. He had every right to do so. A lesser man would have done so and few would have blamed him. Chapman, however, took the position that he had been beaten fairly by two votes and that was it. An orchid to him.

This is the season when we imagine members of Parliament are scratching their heads wondering whether to frank or not to frank. MPs have the right to send unstamped mail anywhere in Canada and most of them use the privilege. There can be no quarrel with this because MPs do receive many letters from constituents and answering such mail is part of the member's job. But it is a rather delicate question whether franking of a member's mail should extend to his Christmas cards. Particularly this year when they recently approved the raising of postal rates on unsealed Christmas cards from three cents to five and on sealed cards from four to six cents (for local delivery). MPs can argue they have to send out more cards than the ordinary mortal and indeed there is no rule against them using their franking privilege for this purpose. The only question is: What will the constituents say? And that is a question that each MP will have to answer for himself.

Serious Language Study

(Victoria Times)

One facet of the language problem common to the United States and to Canada is now undergoing serious study by our neighbors. More highly conscious now than they have been over the problem posed for Mexican-Americans, the United States is investigating the "extent to which rules and practices of public-school systems preclude or impose sanctions on the use of Spanish in school or on school grounds."

This, it is suggested, involves inquiry into the extent to which denial of the right of instruction in the individual's mother tongue is a violation of his civil rights.

There is, of course, a significant difference in the problem confronting the United States and Canada. In this country French is a recognized official language and, as such, enjoys a preferred position over the tongue of any minority which speaks neither French nor English.

The civil rights element in the American dispute does, nevertheless, have some interest for a very large number of Canadians. They may be expected to await with some concern the findings of an independent, bipartisan investigating agency which shortly will open hearings on the question in San Antonio, Texas.

Cystic Mastitis Can Be Worrisome

By DR. GEORGE THOSTESON

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Please discuss cystic mastitis. Does one get rid of it or does cancer eventually develop?—R.P.

I realize that the term "cystic mastitis" is generally used for this problem of cysts forming in the breast, but the better term is "fibrocystic disease of the breast." Mastitis actually is quite a different ailment, inflammation of the breast but with or without the presence of cysts.

Fibrocystic disease is common enough to cause a good deal of worry, not to mention the discomfort it can cause—ranging from none in some patients to a good deal of pain in others.

The ailment is an enlargement or encysting of the milk-producing glands of the breast. These cysts (clogged glands) may or may not reach a size which the patient identifies as a lump. And most women are well alerted to be on watch for a lump in the breast because it is a sign which may mean cancer.

Thus, thousands of women rush off to the doctor—quite rightly—when they find such cysts. Usually, and not surprisingly, most of them are scared to death that it means cancer.

When the trouble proves to be a cyst, it is a great relief—but the cysts still should be watched, and in some cases treated. The cysts ordinarily are not cancerous. They should be followed closely, however, because cancer is known to develop in them, although in a very small percentage of cases.

This fibrocystic disease, besides being to some extent unsightly (because of the lumps) can become painful. The cysts are more likely to become tender during menstrual periods.

Aspirating (with a fine needle) the fluid in such a cyst is sometimes done for two purposes. Examination of the fluid helps determine whether it is benign or cancerous. It also relieves the pressure and discomfort.

Several other methods are employed to decide whether a lump is a cyst or a cancer; cysts usually are moveable; cancer is more firmly fixed and moves very little. Cysts are likely to be multiple; cancer starts in a single spot (although, of course, it later spreads). A group of cysts may appear to be a single lump, in which case removal and microscopic examination may be necessary to be sure. Mammography (X-ray examination of the breasts) also is proving increasingly helpful in diagnosis.

Thus, to answer today's specific question, cancer does not as a rule develop from or in the cysts; although occasionally it may. So it pays to remain on guard.

When cysts become sufficiently troublesome, they can be removed surgically, but this does not guarantee that one will be "rid of the trouble." Unfortunately, cysts tend to recur; some women are subject to this type of trouble, while others are not.

It is a disease of adult maturity; if cysts are going to develop, they usually do so before menopause rather than after.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Our son is engaged to a girl who said she had rheumatic fever when she was about 12. What effect might this have on bearing children, or on the children themselves? She seems now to be in excellent health.—D.E.W.

The big danger is that the disease sometimes causes heart damage. Other than that, there is no reason why it should have any bearing on having babies, or on the babies.

Note to R.Z.: No, there is no "special diet" for mongoloid children. Just a well-balanced diet, like anyone else.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What can you tell me about a mouth infection called thrush? My doctor has been treating it for six months but it still comes back. Can I do anything to get rid of it permanently?—M.B.

Thrush is a yeast infection in the mouth, and sometimes on other mucous surfaces. It makes the mouth look as though it were covered with dried, curdled milk.

The infection usually responds to gentian violet applied to the mouth membranes, but it can be difficult to prevent recurrence.

Two things to keep in mind: first, be suspicious of gum or tooth defects which may harbor the yeast infection; second, the possibility of diabetes should be looked into.

Fish Catches Could Be Bigger

VANCOUVER (CP)—A University of British Columbia zoologist, returned from a United Nations project he says could increase the amount of fish caught in Africa's Lake Victoria four-fold.

Dr. Peter Larkin said in an interview the increase would make a crucial difference to the people of Kenya, Uganda and Tanzania, the three countries bordering on the huge lake.

Dr. Larkin said the people of all three suffer malnutrition because of lack of protein in their diet, which consists largely of grain mash, and fish would provide the essential protein.

About 100,000 tons of fish are caught each year in Lake Victoria, but the UBC professor says the lake could yield from 200,000 to 400,000 tons annually.

Beside primitive fishing methods, the lake's productivity is limited by a lack of distribution methods, he said.

"Most fish are caught and consumed locally," said Dr. Larkin. "A fleet of canoes is met by fishermen on bicycles, who sell the fish up and down the roads."

LETTER TO EDITOR

VIOLENCE ON TV

Sir: At this time of year, the Voice of Women has, in the past, contacted many ministers asking that in their sermons prior to Christmas parents be urged not to purchase war toys for their children. The replies we received indicated that this was an issue many clergymen and parents agreed with. This year, it has been said that in Canada, the sale of "realistic" war toys is down considerably. Perhaps the events of last spring and summer had an effect on the interest of buyers in hardware of this sort. While Voice of Women continues to protest the sale of war toys, especially those directed towards preschoolers, we feel that our attention ought to be diverted now to the pervasive violence on television and we wonder if this might not form a theme for a future sermon? It is an issue of vital concern to every human being.

The director of clinical pastoral education for the Lutheran Hospital Society in Los Angeles, Dr. Roger S. Johnson is quoted in the Edmonton Journal, November 25, 1968, he charges, "Our society condones, if not enjoys violence for its own sake, as evidenced by the popularity of television shows and motion pictures with violent themes." He said too often the "violent man is glorified." "If we glorify the subject, are we not going to reap the whirlwind?"

The answer to this is of course rapidly becoming manifest. Parents who would rather their children were not exposed to vicarious violence can do something about it. For one thing they can turn the television off, at the same time advising the television station by a phone call or a postcard that they are not watching a particular show because of the violence it displays. One should not underestimate the effect of thousands of parents doing this independently. In addition, a postcard to the sponsor telling him the same thing might influence his next choice of program.

Parents have a right to do this, indeed they have an obligation. How many parents would tolerate TV programs in cartoon form, which advocates smoking marijuana, "loping out," refusing to battle, or to cut one's hair. The life of such a television show would be very short indeed, as most parents would insist it be withdrawn for portraying a way of life they would prefer their children not adopt.

If parents believe in the harmful effect in the one instance, they cannot deny that watching warlike behavior, taking the law into one's own hands, and the ready justice of a shooting match will have its effect as well.

At Christmas, Christians celebrate the birth of their redeemer, the Prince of Peace. As individuals we may not be able to alter the course of world events to bring peace. But we can influence our domestic environment so that our children have a healthier, more peaceful television climate. It may go some way toward making ours a peace-loving nation.

OUR ECONOMY

We Always Finish With Inflation

By WARREN BALDWIN

OTTAWA—It seems that whatever the starting point in examination of Canada's economic problems we finish up with inflation. It might be more accurate to say it is fear of inflation rather than the reality today that is dogging Canada's footsteps.

The fear of inflation has invaded the stock market, the bond market and almost every area where prices change and are vulnerable to speculation. Last week in the closing hours of its public hearings, Housing Minister Hellyer's task force on Canada's housing problem heard from the Canadian Life Insurance Association, one of the prime sources of mortgage money for housing. At the end of last year the mortgage portfolios of the life insurance companies totaled $6,600,000,000, most of it for residential construction with a preference for apartment investment.

But, J. S. B. Pemberton, vice-president for finance of the Sun Life Assurance Company told the task force not to count on a continuing supply of mortgage funds on the same scale as in the past.

INFLATION HEDGE

Insurance companies, he warned, could no longer afford to carry as large a proportion of their assets in mortgages which had a long term fixed interest rate, the real value of which would drop as prices rose.

They must invest a larger proportion in common stocks, the value of which would rise and provide a hedge against future inflation. Not only is this going to influence the investing policy of the companies themselves, policy holders are borrowing on their policies at the fixed rate of six per cent.

The Bank of Canada reported total borrowings on policies in the eight months ending August 31 at $41.7 million compared with $19.2 million for the same period last year and $4.6 million in the same eight months of 1965. It is true that today a policy loan wisely invested can be a profitable deal. The other side of the coin is that the insurance company must offset this relatively low interest with higher yield short term investments.

A second reason why the proportion of mortgage investment by life insurance companies is likely to decrease is the Canada Pension Plan and the Quebec Pension Plan which are diverting savings from life insurance to compulsory contributions to funds invested in provincial bonds.

HOUSING PROBLEMS

The task force has wound up its hearing and will get busy this week on preparation of a report which Mr. Hellyer hopes to get completed by mid-January in time to introduce housing legislation early in the spring.

In its quick tour across the country it has amassed volumes of evidence that admittedly raise far more questions than they answer. The one thing clear is that Canadians want and probably need more housing. Some briefs heard by the task force have put the blame on high rates of interest on mortgage loans. In some cases these have had the effect of raising monthly payments by as much as $30.

Building costs have been blamed though these have risen relatively moderately in comparison with land costs. In Toronto where the cost of an average home is now estimated at $28,187 land costs in the last 10 years have risen 10 times. Others have blamed the 11 per cent tax on building materials which undoubtedly must accept some of the blame though again it may be a relatively small share.

LOAN OR SUBSIDY

But whatever solutions the task force comes up with it is difficult to see how government direct lending or, worse still, government subsidy is going to be avoided. On Oct. 1 the government reversed its policy and started priming the pump for prospective home ownership. The response in terms of starts on single detached dwellings which Central Mortgage Housing Corporation classifies as for home ownership has been immediate. Between September and October starts on this type of building have risen by 12 per cent. In the metropolitan areas of Ottawa-Hull, Calgary, Edmonton and Sudbury, they have increased in the month by 14 per cent. Toronto and Windsor have had increase of 11 per cent and Vancouver nine per cent.

But the number of family units that will have new houses is far less than the number that could have been accommodated for the same $170 million investment in loans for apartments. Which means that a basic question which should be decided by the task force is whether Canadians any longer can afford to be home owners.

Guiders Welcome New Commissioner

More than 40 guiders, members of local associations and commissioners from Kelowna Districts 1, 2 and 3 met at the Centennial Hall in Rutland to welcome Mrs. Grace Fuhr of Vernon as commissioner of the North Okanagan Division.

Mrs. Fuhr joined the guiding movement in 1953 as Lieutenant of 1st Okanagan Landing Company, becoming Captain in 1959. In 1963 she was warranted as Commissioner for Vernon District 2, the post which she now relinquishes to assume responsibilities as division commissioner, replacing Mrs. Dorothy Drake, who completed six years in that role. Mrs. Fuhr holds a First Class pin, Maple Leaf and Camper's license and Long Service Ribbon.

On behalf of the guiders and district commissioners, Mrs. George Wambeck, deputy division commissioner, in the absence of a provincial officer, presented Mrs. Fuhr with her warrant and assured her of the loyalty and full co-operation in the field of guiding.

After receiving the guiders salute Mrs. Fuhr thanked them for their loyalty and assured them that she would be always ready to help them meet new challenges.

Mrs. Terry Moonen, commissioner for Kelowna District 1, a lively chairman of the meeting, presented renewal of warrants to

HITHER and YON

Gordon Y. L. Crossley left Tuesday for Toronto where he will spend the holiday season visiting his brother, Thomas Crossley and friends.

George W. Martin returned home recently from Ontario, where he spent several days in the Hamilton and Toronto areas on business and visiting friends and relatives.

A recent visitor to the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. Weidman, 1581 Mountain Ave., Capt. J. M. Carpenter of the Royal Canadian Air Force, Trenton, Ont., has returned to his base. He was on leave after making recent trips to Biafra.

Members of the staff of the Okanagan Realty Ltd., and their guests will enjoy the annual Christmas party on Dec. 21 at the Kelowna Golf and Country Club. The evening which starts with a banquet includes dancing.

Mrs. William Sullivan, 923 Glen Street, recently returned from spending the American Thanksgiving with her father, John Singleton of Phoenix, Ariz., and she also visited with her daughter, Kathleen, who is attending school there.

The Kelowna Real Estate salesmen division is holding its annual Christmas party, which includes a banquet and dance, Friday evening at the Aquatic.

WESTBANK

Mrs. A. E. Drought of Westbank returned by plane from Vancouver to her home in Westbank on Monday. Mrs. Drought spent a month holiday in Vancouver, two weeks with her daughter Mrs. F. Taylor and two weeks with her son Jack A. Drought.

A very successful bazaar and tea was held Nov. 30 at the Westbank United Church hall. The traditional Christmas tree, boughs and holly set a festive air for the many guests who came for tea, a visit, and to buy gifts and home baking. The candy stall which the young choir girls convened was a very popular corner and they were soon depleted of their supply. The Alpha Group convened the annual affair.

Mrs. Marilyn Mathieson and son David spent a long weekend in Westbank visiting Mrs. Mathieson's mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Maddock.

Marilyn and David flew back to their home in Trail Monday morning.

RUTLAND

Mr. and Mrs. David Steele and infant son are new residents of the Rutland district, from Victoria. They are residing on Dougall Road. Mr. Steele very recently displayed a number of very fine paintings at the Rutland art exhibition in the Centennial hall, and now has some paintings on display at the Credit Union building, Kelowna.

J. J. (Jack) Hall has returned home from hospital this past week to convalesce after spending the past two months in the Kelowna General Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Terry T. Josvold and son, formerly of Edmonton, Alta., are now residing on Scotty Creek Road, Ellison.

Mr. and Mrs. B. Barritt, formerly of Langley, B.C., have taken up residence on Dougall Road, Rutland.

Newcomers Plan Christmas Party

Among the many Christmas socials taking place next week, is the Christmas dinner Tuesday evening at the banquet room in Capri hotel of the newly organized Newcomers Club.

The banquet which starts at 7:30 p.m. will be followed by carolling and dancing.

Regular meetings of the club scheduled for the first and third Wednesday of each month, will start in January. The meetings will probably alternate between afternoon and evening events.

Tours, which was the highest interest indicated on the questionnaire circulated at the founding meeting in November, are being planned. A regular monthly newsletter will be initiated soon, according to Mrs. William Sullivan, originator of the newcomer idea.

ENGAGEMENT

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Hayes of Kelowna are pleased to announce the engagement of their eldest daughter, Sandra-Gaye, to Harley Thomas Day, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Day, of Comox, B.C.

The wedding date will be announced later.

ANN LANDERS

Woman Psychiatrist Could Be Of Help

Dear Ann Landers: I'm in desperate need of advice. I hope you can help me.

My childhood was not a very happy one, which I'm sure is part of my problem. My father was a handsome heel who had one affair after another. I was crazy about him but he ignored me. I married too young because I thought it would solve my problem which was getting beyond control. I was a good-looking girl and had lots of dates but I ended up sleeping with every boy who said a kind word to me.

I've been married three years now have two children. My old problem is back. The milkman is beginning to look good to me. Also the TV repairman, the mailman, and the insurance fellow. I have fantasies of being intimate with any male I look at.

Please don't tell me to go to a psychiatrist. I wouldn't be able to control myself with one. I'd end up either involved or rejected. Help me, Ann.

— CHICAGO MESS
Dear Chicago: Some of the finest psychiatrists in your city are women. Select one and get the help you need.

Dear Ann Landers: As a last resort, we, the desperate male students at Michigan Technological University, are writing to you for help.

This is a good school, great ski country, but it's awfully lonely up here without any girls. I shouldn't say "without any" because there are some but not enough. The ratio is about 10 guys to every girl.

If you help us the girls up here would appreciate it, too. They are so exhausted from the social life they have trouble staying awake in class. Thanks, Ann, you're a real doll. — MEN OF MTU

Dear Men: Here's your letter with a word from The Doll. Anyone interested in MTU, write to the Chamber of Commerce in Houghton, Michigan.

SWINGING PARTNERS

By K.M.

Dancers from various valley clubs and three couples from Williams Lake, joined the Kelowna Wagon Wheelers in the Winfield Community hall, Saturday night to dance to Wally Sanderson of Quesnel.

In Penticton the Peach City Promenaders hosted their party in the Legion hall with Norm Clark as caller.

Dec. 14 the Westside Squares will host their party night in the Westbank Community hall at 8 p.m. with Ernie Funk of Kamloops. Refreshments will be provided and everyone welcome.

Dec. 21 the Wheel-N-Stars of Penticton will host their Christmas party in the Legion hall at 8 p.m. with Vic Graves of Nelson as caller. Turkey supper will be served by the host club and everyone welcome.

The Twirlers Square Dance and the Vernon Clubs have cancelled their party night for December. The Vernon Square Dance club will hold their party on Jan. 25 with Ray Frerickson as caller.

7. There is no acceptable excuse for rough handling of fellow dancers, roughness is the mark of ignorance—whether by chance or by choice—and you will do well not to imitate even a more experienced dancer who has chosen to ignore this elementary rule of proper square dance conduct.

8. At the end of every dance be sure to thank the others in your square. They did contribute to your fun. Thank your partner, too, and escort her to a chair.

9. Friendliness is a part of good manners. Square dancing promotes friendliness since it offers endless opportunities for new friendships to develop. If you are not continually making new friends you are not getting the most out of square dancing. A good way to insure a friendly atmosphere is to consider yourself always a host to all other dancers. Friendliness comes from within yourself and can best be described as your interest in others. Those who seek it will be wise to look for it at its source, those who display it are never obliged to seek it.

10. Be a well-informed square dancer. Review these rules of etiquette often. Until next week Happy Square Dancing.

PIPE DREAMS FOR BLACK MOUNTAIN DISTRICT

Pipe dreams for residents of the Black Mountain Irrigation District. Pipes seen along Highway 97 across from the Kelowna Drive-In Theatre, are part of the 19,000 feet which will be used in the Agriculture and Rehabilitation Development Act (ARDA) project in that area. A four year project, the pipes started arriving about a month and a half ago. The project, when completed, will bring water to approximately 5,000 acres in the district. (Courier photo).

Unemployment in Canada Is Estimated At 338,000

OTTAWA (CP) — Unemployment in Canada at mid-November was estimated at 338,000, up 50,000 from a month earlier and 49,000 higher than a year earlier, a government survey reported today.

There were 288,000 unemployed at mid-October and 289,000 in November, 1967.

The joint report by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics and the manpower department said the latest unemployment estimate represents 4.2 per cent of the labor force, compared with 3.8 per cent a year earlier.

The seasonally-adjusted unemployment rate was 4.9 per cent.

The job picture in brief, with estimates in thousands:

	Nov. 1968	Oct. 1968	Nov. 1967
Labor force	8,015	7,995	7,698
Employed	7,677	7,707	7,409
Unemployed	338	288	289

The report termed the unemployment increase seasonal.

FORCE HIGHER

Total employment declined by 30,000 to 7,677,000 between October and November, somewhat less than the average drop for the period. The labor force increased by 20,000 to 8,015,000 whereas it usually decreases at this time of year. It was 317,000 higher than a year earlier.

The report is based on a sample survey of about 35,000 households across Canada.

Farm employment showed a decrease of 54,000 during the month with completion of harvesting. Non-farm employment increased by 24,000.

The largest gain in non-farm employment was in trade at 41,000, with smaller gains in manufacturing and public administration.

Total employment decreased during the month in the Atlantic region by 14,000 and in Quebec by 28,000 and in the Prairies by 11,000. There was an increase in Ontario by 19,000.

Compared with a year ago, farm employment was down by 12,000 and non-farm employment up by 280,000. The year-over-year increase in employment was shared by all regions except the Atlantic.

The survey's estimates do not include students and housewives who have sought outside work, persons too old or otherwise unable to work and the voluntarily idle or retired.

Credit Card Fraud Hits Phone Companies Hard

VANCOUVER (CP) — Credit card fraud is costing telephone companies in North America hundreds of thousands of dollars a year in unpaid long-distance calls.

The British Columbia Telephone Co., for example, estimates that fraudulent use of telephone credit cards costs it about $24,000 annually in uncollectable charges.

R. J. McLuckie, the company's security supervisor, says fraudulent use of the cards has increased substantially in 1968.

But not all who try it get away with it.

Seven persons have been tried and convicted in B.C. during the last two months on criminal charges arising from misuse of telephone credit cards.

In one case in which a young woman was convicted, investigators found the credit card number she used had been widely used by others across North America. The total amount in fraudulent charges against the number was $65,000.

In three other cases where the individuals were arrested in Vancouver and convicted of theft of over $50, the same credit card number was used. The number, once held by actor Steve McQueen in California, had been published in a hippie newspaper in Los Angeles and was so widely used that fraudulent charges amounted to $136,000. Sentences have not yet been handed down in the Vancouver case.

Mr. McLuckie says telephone companies are seeking something to replace the existing credit card.

These cards are used without being shown. They have a letter code which indicates they are valid for a given year, the seven digits of the telephone number to which the call is to be charged, and a three-digit code which identifies the company issuing the card.

Mr. McLuckie said the telephone industry believes the recent increase in cheater calls is due largely to the hippie and draft-dodging element leaving home.

TAKES AWHILE

He said that once a number is accepted, it is passed verbally or by mail among the floating groups—or, as in the McQueen case, published—and it is used all over the United States and Canada to place calls.

It sometimes takes a while before a particular number becomes known as a fake. By that time thousands of dollars worth of calls may have been placed through it. When a fake number is spotted, it is posted at switchboards and operators are warned not to accept calls on it.

"We are able to track down many of the people using credit cards fraudulently," Mr. McLuckie said. "We are improving our methods of doing so all the time."

DEATHS

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

New York — Arthur Hays Sulzberger, 77, chairman of the board of the New York Times and the newspaper's publisher between 1935 and 1961.

Copenhagen — Dr. Eigil Nielsen, 58, Danish paleontologist credited with establishing the existence of the long-sought zoological link between fish and amphibians.

Cleveland — Senator E. L. Bartlett, 64, former miner and newspaper reporter who sat in Congress between 1945 and 1958 as territorial delegate from Alaska and then became one of its Democratic senators after Congress approved Alaska statehood.

Vancouver — Rufe Gibbs, 86, a philanthropist who built up a $1,000,000 fishing tackle business and then gave away most of his fortune to the sick and underprivileged.

Norwich, England — Louis Marchesi, 70, founder of the International Round Table movement, an organization of young business and professional men doing service and civic work in their own communities.

Hong Kong-Born Teacher Rutland AOTS Speaker

RUTLAND—Guest speaker at the monthly supper meeting of the Rutland United Church AOTS Club was William Ho, a mathematics and science teacher, who was born in Hong Kong, the British protectorate on the coast of China, and lived there until he was 21 years of age.

He left there 14 years ago and has been in Canada most of the time since. He has taught school in Winnipeg for five years, and more recently spent some time as a teacher in Canada's far north at Inuvik, N.W.T., prior to coming to Kelowna to join the teaching staff of Kelowna's Dr. Knox school.

The speaker was introduced by the chairman, Gerald Geen.

He spoke to the AOTS members about his native Hong Kong, of living conditions and family life, and the economic standards of the people crowded into the city, 75,000 persons to the square mile. Privacy was an unknown luxury, with families reduced to unbelievably small living space in crowded communal dwellings.

One unusual feature was the low price of many commodities manufactured elsewhere and brought into Hong Kong. The city is a "free port", and no duty is charged on anything other than liquor and perfume, and as a result a great many things can be purchased more cheaply in Hong Kong than anywhere else in the world, sometimes even cheaper than in the country of origin.

Another interesting fact was revealed about the Chinese language. The written characters are the same all over China, and all Chinese can read the written language, but there are a vast number of dialects, and Chinese from different areas cannot understand each other in the spoken form.

At the close of his talk the speaker was called upon to answer a great many questions. Asked what he thought about the United States forces being in Vietnam, he replied that if they were not there, Vietnam would now be a communistic state. A hearty vote of thanks was extended to the speaker for his highly interesting address.

Forgers May Be At Work On Island Says Gallery

VICTORIA (CP) — Officials of the Victoria Art Gallery believe art forgers may be at work on southern Vancouver Island.

The comment came as an auction here Tuesday night sold 200 art works to gross a total of $40,000.

Included were works by Emily Carr. An unidentified Vancouver buyer paid $8,000 for her work entitled "Cleared Land B.C." and a second Vancouver buyer paid $6,700 for a Carr oil.

A Lawrence Harris painting went for $5,500.

At the sale, a still life bearing the signature Emily Carr sold for $600 with auctioneer Wilfrid Lund telling the customer "You are on your own with this one."

Colin Graham, director of the art gallery here, said "I am pretty sure that an attempt is being made locally to forge Emily Carr's work."

'VERY DIFFICULT'

"It is very difficult in some cases to determine if such works are fake because they are based on her early, nondescript style."

"It's an area of her work in which we have to be very careful."

He said he believes the forgeries are originating in Victoria and Duncan.

"I think the water colors are done as deliberate fakes, and in another I think her signature has been added to watercolors done around the same time she was working."

Mr. Graham said the strongest indication of the forgeries lies in the signature being used, in a style Miss Carr did not use until she was in her 30s. But they are being placed on paintings allegedly done when she was in her teens and producing "amateurish" work.

Miss Carr died in 1945 at the age of 73. Her works, depicting B.C. scenes such as totem poles, have since won wide renown.

B.C. Election In 6 Months

PENTICTON (CP) — Premier W. A. C. Bennett will call a provincial election within six months or sooner, British Columbia Liberal Leader Dr. Pat McGeer said Wednesday night.

"A poll has been taken and it shows us ahead of the Social Credit Party," he told the annual meeting of the Boundary-Similkameen Liberal Association. "And it wasn't taken by the Liberals."

He said he based his election prediction on the premier's statements there will not be an election soon "but if I were Bennett I'd want to hold one before the ship develops any more leaks."

Dr. McGeer said that although B.C. is the most rapidly expanding province "we've made the least contribution" to constitutional development and institutional reform.

"The Social Credit Party doesn't understand what national commitment is," he said. "Our own legislature sets the worst example in Canada."

"We are the only province that doesn't permit a citizen to sue the Crown."

U.S. Ships Leave The Black Sea

ISTANBUL (AP) — Two American destroyers left the Black Sea today after a three-day cruise that brought protests from Moscow and stirred up controversy in Turkey.

The United States said the brief visit to Russia's southern doorstep by the Dyess and the Turner, two 3,500-ton members of the U.S. 6th Fleet, was a routine operation. But it was generally assumed that the cruise was prompted by the Soviet naval buildup in the Mediterranean.

The destroyers sailed through the Bosphorus into the Black Sea Monday morning and came back out early this morning. Soviet ships and planes shadowed them during their cruise.

It was the second visit this year by U.S. destroyers to the Black Sea and the eighth in four years.

The Russians called the naval manoeuvre a provocation, a threat to peace and Soviet security, and a violation of the 1936 Montreux Convention which governs the use of the Bosphorus, the entrance to the Black Sea.

Armstrong Scores Goal As Leafs Tie Montreal

By SCOTT BUTTON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

If Toronto Maple Leafs make the National Hockey League playoffs, their captain, George Armstrong, may receive much of the credit.

Armstrong, 38, announced his retirement just before the start of the season and the Maple Leafs didn't seem the same without him. It looked as if the team would have a difficult time qualifying for post-season play until Armstrong announced 10 days ago that he was ending his retirement.

Since then, the Maple Leafs have won three and tied one in four starts. As a result, they are in fourth place in the Eastern Division—three points behind second-place Boston Bruins and New York Rangers and five back of first-place Montreal Canadiens.

Armstrong, playing in his second game of the season, scored his first goal of the season Wednesday night to help the Maple Leafs tie the Canadiens 4-4.

In other action Wednesday night, Chicago Black Hawks blasted St. Louis 6-3 ending the Blues' undefeated streak at 12 games, Boston and New York fought to a 2-2 tie, Pittsburgh Penguins downed Minnesota North Stars 4-2 and Los Angeles Kings thrashed Detroit Red Wings 6-3.

Manager-coach Punch Imlach of Toronto seemed hopeful from the outset that Armstrong would return. He refused to name another captain after the popular right winger quit, leaving the position open should Armstrong change his mind.

A crowd of 16,485 at Toronto roared in approval when Armstrong tipped Bob Pulford's shot past Montreal goaltender Tony Esposito at 3:43 of the first period.

Dave Keon, Ron Ellis and Paul Henderson scored the other Toronto goals. Scoring for Montreal were Mickey Redmond, Dick Duff, Jacques Lemaire and John Ferguson.

Ferguson's goal, the 100th of his NHL career, came at 14:15 of the final period and gave Montreal the tie. The fiery left winger beat Toronto goalie Bruce Gamble cleanly after taking a pass from Redmond.

Duff's goal was his fourth of the season and gave him a career total of 500 points during regular-season play.

SCORE QUICK GOALS
The Black Hawks delighted a home crowd of 16,686 by scoring three goals within a 55-second span of the second period to defeat the Blues.

Dennis Hull and Ken Wharman led Chicago with two goals apiece. Bobby Hull and Doug Mohns added one each.

Frank St. Marseille, Ron Schock and Terry Crisp scored for the Blues.

The victory left Chicago in fifth place in the Eastern Division, two points behind Toronto. St. Louis still leads the Western Division, with a comfortable eight-point margin over Los Angeles.

Jacques Plante, the starting St. Louis goaltender, was struck on the forehead by a puck fired by Stan Mikita late in the second period. He was replaced by Glenn Hall at the start of the second.

MAINTAINS HOLD
Bobby Hull helped the muscular left winger maintain his hold on the scoring race with 45 points on 20 goals and 25 assists.

Bill Flett scored three goals to pace Los Angeles to its triumph before 7,245 California fans.

Flett, the Kings' top scorer last season with 26 goals, entered the game with only four this season. He also had two three-goal games last season against Detroit.

The other Los Angeles goals went to Howie Menard, Howie Hughes and Ron Anderson. Frank Mahovlich, Gary Unger and Ron Harris scored for Detroit.

Ken Hodges goal at 2:57 of the final period gave Boston its 2-2 tie against the Rangers and sent 17,250 New York fans home unhappy. Fred Stanfield scored the other Boston goal, and Ranger goals went to Bob Nevin and Vic Hadfield.

GOALIES ALERT
Both goaltenders were exceptionally alert as Ed Giacomin of New York made 32 saves and Gerry Cheevers of Boston 31.

Minnesota, possibly the biggest disappointment in the NHL this season, continued to have trouble despite a play shake-up earlier in the day.

Billy Harris, Val Fonteyne, Charlie Burns and Wally Boyer connected for the Penguins who recorded the victory in front of 10,068 Minnesota fans. Danny O'Shea and Andre Boudrias scored for the North Stars, now tied for fourth in the Western Division with Pittsburgh.

Before the game, the North Stars announced that forward

Bill Goldworthy, the leading scorer in last spring's Stanley Cup playoffs with 15 points, had been assigned to Memphis of the Central Hockey League. Defencemen Mike McMahon and Boudrias also were fined for their unimpressive play this season.

Canucks Stalled By Spurs In Move For Second Place

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

San Diego Gulls and Portland Buckaroos put a little daylight between themselves and the other four Western Hockey League clubs with a pair of easy victories Wednesday night.

The league - leading Gulls bombed Phoenix Roadrunners 6-1 before a home-ice crowd of 5,157 and the Buckaroos handled Seattle Totems 4-1 before 5,142 fans in Portland.

The other game saw Vancouver's bid to move into second place thwarted as the visiting Canucks were nipped 3-2 by the last-place Denver Spurs before only 1,217 fans. It was Denver's sixth win in 28 games.

The win gave San Diego a five-point bulge on Portland which now has a two-point lead over third-place Vancouver.

Phoenix and Seattle are deadlocked for the fourth and last playoff spot.

Bruce Carmichael notched his 12th and 13th goals of the season in the second period to give the Gulls a 5-0 lead and early command of the contest.

Buckaroos Host Last-Place Club

Defence has played a prominent part in the Kelowna Buckaroos success this season.

Considering the Bucks had only two holdover defencemen when the B.C. Junior Hockey League season opened, it is amazing they should be leading the league in goals-against average. But the fact is they are, and at the moment appear in no danger of letting up on their good defensive work.

Even the two holdovers on defence are only second-year men, Dave Angus and Dave Yarocki.

But the play of rookie Earl Morris has been more than a pleasant surprise for coach Clayton Lavelle. Put into a situation where he plays more than most regular defencemen around the league, Morris has played well enough to warrant a lot of attention when all-star voting comes around at the end of the season.

Yarocki and Angus will probably attract some thought also when the B.C.J.H.L. gets around to selecting their dream team.

RON PYLE
... busy, busy

But the defence alone isn't responsible for the Buckaroos' good defensive work this year.

Ron Pyle, who played most of last season with the Kelowna Junior B club, has been outstanding all season and is threatening the league's leading goaltenders in the goals-against department.

His average was hovering near the 4.0 mark after last weekend's play.

Pyle is also one of the hardest-working goalies in the league, making appearances in 17 of Kelowna's 19 games played this season. Only Maurice L'Heureux of New Westminster has played more games, 18.

L'Heureux will likely be in the nets Saturday when the Royals visit Kelowna at the Memorial Arena. The game is an important one for both teams.

Kelowna needs a victory to get back in the fight for first place while New Westminster is looking for an escape route from the league basement.

Game time is 8:30 p.m.

SPORTS, OF SORTS

Offer By Russians Greeted With Awe

By RON ALLERTON

GRANT WARWICK would have a fit.

"What do you mean, bring Russian coaches to Canada to teach us how to play our own game?" he would say.

But even Grant would have to admit the international hockey scene has changed drastically since his Pentiction Vees won the world hockey championship with a 5-0 shutout over the Russians in 1955.

Actually, the Canada versus the world hockey classic has come full circle.

Any honest hockey observer will admit the Canadian National team will never beat the Russians for the world hockey championship, including the Nats coach Jackie McLeod.

To add insult to injury the two top Russian coaches have offered to come to Canada for a month to act as advisors and help train Canadians in the highly successful Russian training and conditioning methods.

THE IDEA IS sound, if we can stand the embarrassment, but what benefit will be obtained from the Russians' visit? How many Canadian players will accept the grueling Russian methods?

Right now the major problem is the national team's image. Hockey is money to top Canadian players. Any youngster with hockey talent aims for only one thing, playing for a National Hockey League team and the money this brings.

The glory of playing for the nationals, in a losing international cause, simply does not hold any attraction.

The nationals' major accomplishment this season has been holding the number one Russian team scoreless for the last 40 minutes of one game.

Nancy Green, Canada's ski darling, makes sense when she talks of the need to improve the national team's image, to make young players want to play for the Canadian team. But even she doesn't have enough solutions to the problems which plague the team.

ONE WORD sums up the Russian's success in hockey during the past 10 years... dedication.

Their training and conditioning methods are really no secret. They play more hockey in one season than most Canadians play in two. And, when they are not playing hockey they are busy at soccer, or other sports designed to keep their condition and reflexes at a peak. In short, almost everything they do, both physically and mentally, is designed with hockey in mind.

How many Canadians would accept such a schedule, hockey-oriented 12 months of the year, especially if there was no money at stake?

History shows that for many years almost any Canadian team was good enough to win the world; college squads, armed forces teams, then, finally the best senior amateur teams in the country, usually the Allan Cup champions. Now there is some question if an NHL team could beat the Russians under international rules.

WE GET BEAT at our own game, simply because the Russians worked harder than their opponents.

In Spokane in December, 1955 a quiet Russian team advisor stood quietly in a corner after the Russian touring team had defeated the Spokane Jets 6-0. When asked to detail the Russian success story he quickly switched back to the Pentiction success in 1955.

"We learned a lot from that game and for years patterned our efforts after those with which the Vees beat us," he said. Everything he mentioned involved fundamentals, skating and passing, but most important, conditioning. He said in effect, "you didn't get worse, we worked to get better."

Jackie McLeod agrees and he should be the highest authority on the national team. He says the Nats will never beat the Russians under Canada's present system.

ANYONE WHO HAS seen the Russians play in the past three years knows what McLeod is talking about. He says the improvement from last season to this year is the most remarkable ever.

They can skate all night and their fundamental positional play and checking is almost unbelievable.

Perhaps the only way to compete successfully with the Russians is to junk the Nationals and send an NHL team. But of course that solves the amateur-ruling-and-that's-another aspect of the problem entirely.

The Russians know we have better teams than we send overseas and so do Canadian hockey fans. Both the fans and the Russians are anxious to see our pros play their teams.

The next moves are obviously up to the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, international hockey authorities and the NHL board of governors.

Grant Saves Nationals; Possible Death Averted

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's national hockey team received a $200,000 federal government grant Wednesday and possibly a whole new executive structure.

The financial agreement was reached at a meeting between Health Minister Munro and leaders of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, present sponsors of the team which is drawn from squads in Winnipeg and Ottawa.

At the same time, Mr. Munro and the CAHA executive agreed that a new corporation should be set up to take over control and operation of the team next year.

The CAHA, however, has not yet formally accepted the proposal but directors are expected to give it the nod next month. The association has been supporting a similar scheme for two years.

Wednesday's meeting was called after CAHA acting president Earl Dawson of Rivers, Man., said that unless the government grant was made immediately the team would have to be disbanded.

JOHN MUNRO
... meets CAHA

Mr. Munro told reporters that under the proposed re-organization the CAHA would continue holding the international affiliation entitling Canada to participation in world tournaments but the corporation, tentatively called Hockey Canada, would provide the team.

The 1969 championship has been moved to Sweden from Czechoslovakia.

The executive of the proposed corporation, a non-profit organization, would be dominated by persons appointed by the health minister.

The CAHA, Montreal Canadiens and Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League would also name representatives to the Hockey Canada executive.

A health department spokesman said presidents David Molson of the Canadiens and Stafford Smythe of the Maple Leafs have pledged "full co-operation" and offered to serve on the Hockey Canada executive.

The spokesman said both Mr. Dawson and Gordon Jukes of Winnipeg, CAHA secretary-manager, said after Wednesday's meeting they would recommend the new setup to CAHA directors when they meet Jan. 20 in Winnipeg.

Mr. Dawson confirmed in a Toronto interview later Wednesday that financial problems forced the CAHA to recommend the takeover by a separate group.

Last year's federal government grant to the team—formed from squads based in Ottawa and Winnipeg—was $100,000, half the present pledged assistance.

MINISTER LIKES IDEA

He said he had recommended that Hockey Canada take over the team and "the minister likes the idea."

He said other members of the group include John Wintermeyer, former Ontario Liberal leader, financier Max Bell of Calgary, federal cabinet minister James Richardson of Winnipeg, Rev. David Bauer, of Toronto, the team's founder, and himself.

The Canadian team was winless in an invitational tournament in Moscow last week. They were beaten once by the Soviet national team, twice by the Soviet second team, and they tied with Finland.

Mr. Dawson said the Russians had indicated willingness to give some coaching assistance to the Canadians.

Anatoly Tarasov, coach of the Soviet national team, recently offered to spend one month training and conditioning the Canadian team. "This is an intriguing offer," Mr. Dawson said.

Canada last won the world title in 1961, when the Trail, B.C. Smoke Eaters captured the award.

Russia has won the title every year since 1963.

Long Trail Ends For Golfing King

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Ben Hogan, four-time winner of the U.S. Open, twice winner of the Masters, and former PGA and British Open titlist, hasn't played a competitive round of golf since 1966.

And he won't again unless the conditions are perfect.

Hogan retired from competitive golf in 1955. But he enjoyed playing in an occasional tournament in Florida, or the Masters or in Fort Worth at the Colonial Country Club. And even though the putting jitters affected his scores somewhat, he thrilled the tournament crowds with his shot making ability, which seemed to lose neither its distance nor accuracy.

But a combination of age—Hogan is 56—and physical problems have cast doubt on whether he will ever play seriously again.

Hogan underwent surgery last month in New Orleans. The doctor cut away calcium and some tissue from his shoulder. Hogan will return in six weeks for a checkup.

His left kneecap is ailing. But Hogan said the doctor advised no surgery for it—just more time to heal.

"It works against the cartilage," Hogan said. "When I move to my left side it hurts. So I back up on my right foot and that's not very good if you're going to play golf."

Hogan has been busy with his business activities, including his golf club company.

But the competitive fire hasn't dimmed.

Hull Scores 20th Goal

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Bobby Hull of Chicago Black Hawks scored his 20th goal of the season Wednesday night and maintained his strong lead in National Hockey League scoring.

The goal, coming in Chicago's 6-3 victory against St. Louis Blues, gave Hull 45 points.

Gordie Howe of Detroit, in runner-up spot with 39 points, picked up an assist Wednesday in a 6-3 loss to Los Angeles Kings.

DAUPHIN, Man. (CP) — Bert Smart of Dauphin needed 20 ringers in the second game of the final series to stave off a determined bid by veteran Bill Morley for the championship in the five-month-long district horseshoe tournament. Smart went through the annual Ringerama, which starts in June and ends in October, without a loss.

There are those who remember the way Hogan fought back after a crippling automobile accident in 1949. First it was thought he wouldn't live. Then it ships.

was thought he would never play golf again.

Hogan's answer was three more National Open championships.

Russians May Get Chance To Play Team From NHL

TORONTO (CP) — The Russians, who have been contending for some time that their best amateur hockey team can beat a National Hockey League club, may be on the verge of getting a chance to prove it.

An informed hockey source said Wednesday night a "secret plan" being worked out between the NHL and federal government could match a team of professional players against the Russians for the world hockey title in the near future.

The Canadian representative could be Toronto Maple Leafs or Montreal Canadiens of the NHL, providing the International Hockey Federation agrees to change the world tournament to open competition, the source said.

The source said the formula, which must be presented to the IHF for acceptance, would create "a sort of world cup of hockey" and was the principal topic of discussion at a meeting of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, the federal health department and NHL in Ottawa earlier Wednesday.

The only announcement forthcoming from the Ottawa meeting, however, was that the federal government would turn over $200,000 to the CAHA for the financing of the current Canadian national team and that the team's operation may be taken over by a separate group next season.

DROPS HINT

A hint of the pending world cup of hockey was given by Earl Dawson of Rivers, Man., president of the CAHA, a few hours later during a brief stop-over here en route to Winnipeg from Ottawa.

"I can envisage the day in the very near future—perhaps within five years—when Canada will be represented in world tournaments by Toronto Maple Leafs or Montreal Canadiens," Dawson said.

He pointed out that Canada, which now maintains two national teams—in Ottawa and Winnipeg—cannot get top recruits for its ranks because of the huge financial contracts offered by the NHL.

Canada has been represented up until now at world tournaments by strict amateurs, who do not turn professional when they graduate from junior ranks, or reinstated amateurs because of the IHF ruling against participation by professionals.

"But the Canadian public and the wish of the European countries—especially Russia—to prove their supremacy against the best we have to offer will force the change," Dawson said.

He indicated the switch to an open world tournament would not take place until at least 1970-71.

"The national team as we now know it, with teams in Ottawa and Winnipeg, will be continued through next season," he said.

Plans were being kept secret in order to get the approval of Prime Minister Trudeau before making an official announcement.

Greece Scores Soccer Upset

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Greece scored a major soccer upset Wednesday night, beating Portugal 4-2 in a qualifying match for the 1970 World Cup.

Third in the 1966 World Cup Finals, Portugal faces a tough task to qualify this time from a group which also contains Romania and Switzerland.

Northern Ireland beat Turkey 3-0 in Istanbul to add to their 4-1 victory over the Turkish team in Belfast in October. But favored in this group is the Soviet Union, which has yet to enter the fray.

Scotland crushed Cyprus 5-0 in Nicosia, scoring all the goals in the first half. The Scots' main opposition in this group will come from West Germany, runners-up in the 1966 finals.

Both Scotland and West Germany have won their two group matches to date.

Belgium drew 1-1 with Spain in Madrid and remained a threat to all teams in its group, which includes Yugoslavia, runners-up in this year's European soccer championship.

England, the reigning world champions, were held to a 1-1 draw by Bulgaria.

Pickering Upsets Northcott In CBC Curling Tournament

TORONTO (CP) — Bob Pickering of Milestone, Sask., scored an upset 13-8 win over Canadian and world champion Ron Northcott of Calgary Wednesday night at the CBC international curling tournament.

But Northcott, with his rink of Fred Storey, Bernie Sparks and Barry Coleman, stayed in contention with a 6-5 win over Bruce Hudson of Winnipeg.

Alf Phillips Jr., of Toronto remained unbeaten in the week-long competition by defeating Alan Smith of Prince Edward Island 8-2. Defending champion Doug Wankel of Elbow, Sask., ousted Chuck Hay of Scotland 8-7.

It was a frustrating day for Northcott, who defeated Pickering in the Canadian championship final last year. He was on the ice for more than eight hours to play two games which were being recorded on videotape for showing early next year.

"They said it was technical difficulties, but it's a bit much to take more than four hours to play a game," Northcott said in an interview.

"Even in the best competition, it takes only two to 2½ hours to play a 10-end game."

Northcott blamed himself for the loss to Pickering.

"We were tied 8-8 after eight ends," he said. "I got careless and gave him three in the 9th and then he got an easy two in the 10th."

Police Probing Writer's Charges

OTTAWA (CP) — An RCMP spokesman said Wednesday night the force was investigating charges by a Montreal newspaper reporter that she was questioned at home Tuesday by RCMP officers on how she obtained parts of the unpublished third report of the royal commission on bilingualism and biculturalism.

"We just can't comment on an investigation when it is under way," the spokesman said.

Lysiane Gagnon said Wednesday in a report in the Montreal daily newspaper La Presse that she was questioned by two "charming" policemen who asked questions for an hour and a half. She said she refused to reply.

CAN WATCH PUPILS
CALGARY (CP) — One-way mirror glass has been installed in St. Vincent de Paul elementary school. The mirrors permit teachers to watch teaching techniques without disturbing the pupils.

Office Union Not Planning Strike Action

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Office and Technical Employees' union said Wednesday it will not take strike action for the time being in its contract dispute with International Power and Engineering Consultants Ltd.

The announcement followed a meeting at which the company, British Columbia Power and Hydro Authority, clarified its latest contract offer.

The offer provided a 15½ per cent increase over two years but the union said the company had proposed salary level changes which would leave new employees between $46 and $122 a month behind existing employees.

The company said the salary proposal would mean that in many instances the levels in October, 1969, would exceed current scales.

LIKES LOSING

LEICESTER, England (CP) — An excise official doesn't want to win when he's playing the horses. "In fact he's a lot happier when he loses," a Crown lawyer told a court here. He can only keep the betting receipt when he loses, and it later can be used as evidence if the bookie is found to be running an illegal business. Comparing slips with tax returns, excise experts found a local bookmaker was paying too little tax. He was fined $160.

Britain Moves For Ceasefire In Biafra

LONDON (CP) — Britain has launched a two-way effort to obtain a ceasefire in Biafra before Christmas, it was learned Wednesday.

Two high foreign office officials, now in Lagos and Addis Ababa, are carrying confidential messages from Prime Minister Wilson urging a ceasefire which could be supervised by a hurried expansion of the existing international observer group, informants said.

Lord Shepherd, a minister of state, is in Lagos and will attempt to use his influence on federal Nigerian leader Maj. Gen. Yakubu Gowon. Maurice Foley, foreign office undersecretary, is in Addis Ababa with a message for Ethiopian Emperor Haile Selassie.

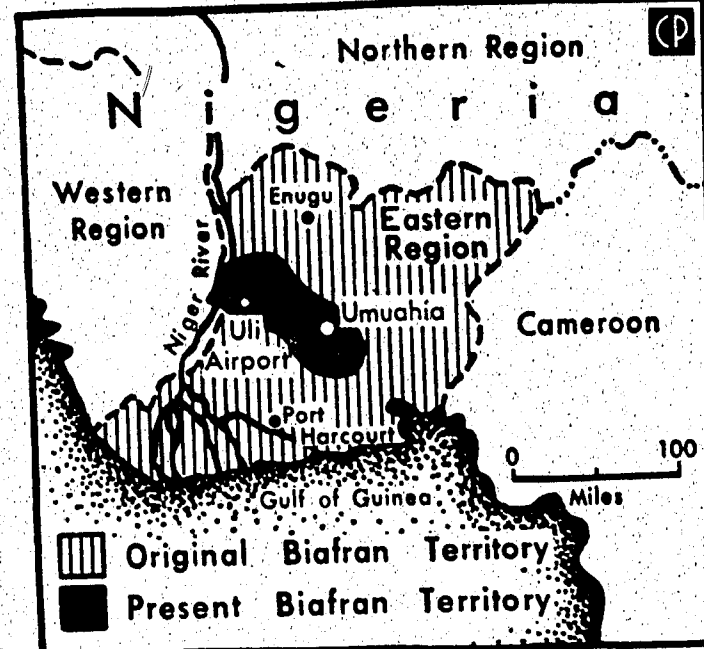

SHE KNOWS HOW TO HURT A GUY

TORONTO (CP) — Mrs. M. A. Finlay of Hamilton, a shareholder in Copperfields Mining Corp., threw stones Friday at the company's vice-president to protest the omission of a dividend.

She was attending the company's annual meeting and during a heated argument, Mrs. Finlay took two stones from her handbag and threw them at the chair, hitting Vice-President R. J. Wright in the hand.

N. B. Keevil, head of the company, said the dividend was stopped because the company was conserving funds; one objective being to put a copper mine back on its feet.

FIT FOR A DOG
VANCOUVER (CP) — It takes about 400 hours of intensive training before a dog is considered ready for active duty with the Vancouver police. The squad uses German Shepherds and says a dog can't be "a bully or a coward."

BIAFRANS STAND FIRM

Biafran secessionist forces are standing firm against federal Nigerian troops in the area of the map shown in black. The shaded area of the map shows the territory which originally broke away from Nigeria.

Welfare Policy To Stand Says Benson

TORONTO (CP) — Finance Minister Edgar Benson served notice Tuesday he intends to stand firmly by federal social-welfare policies when he meets critical provincial ministers in cost-sharing talks next week.

In a speech prepared for the Liberal Businessmen's Club of Toronto, Mr. Benson dismissed as "myths" or "frivolous bargaining" the protests by some provincial finance ministers against the federal government's medical care program, taxation policies and its proposal to turn over shared-cost welfare programs entirely to the provinces.

The speech was read by Herb Gray, Mr. Benson's parliamentary secretary, because the finance minister is ill with influenza.

Jones Wants His Job Back

VICTORIA (CP) — George E. P. Jones said Wednesday his $15,000 damages award in a slander suit against Premier W. A. C. Bennett won't help him recover economic damages resulting from the premier's statements.

"I want my job back," he said in an interview after the Supreme Court of Canada restored a trial judge's finding that Mr. Bennett slandered the former provincial purchasing commission chairman at a Victoria election rally.

Mr. Jones, who said he has debts totalling $24,000, said his radio job "helps keep me alive but my own craft is purchasing and I am one of the best in the country."

"But I haven't been able to get a job in that field, or in any field. My name is almost an anathema."

Soviet Union Announces A Record Military Budget

MOSCOW (Reuters) — The Soviet Union announced that a record military budget of 17,700,000,000 rubles (about $21,000,000,000) for 1969.

The new expenditure represents a rise of 1,000,000,000 rubles or six per cent over the current year.

The 1969 figure was announced to the Supreme Soviet, the Soviet parliament, by Finance Minister Vasily Garbuzov.

While the 1969 appropriation is the greatest amount of money to be spent on defence in Soviet history, it represents a smaller proportion of the total budget than last year's defence figure of 16,700,000,000 rubles.

Garbuzov told the 1,517 deputies to the two-chamber parliament that the rise in military spending was aimed at increasing Soviet defence capacities. But he did not attribute the increase to any particular area of tension or conflict.

Army observers here were surprised at the comparatively low figure for 1969. A big boost was expected in the face of growing East-West tension in the wake of the Soviet-led Warsaw pact invasion of Czechoslovakia.

The 1969 appropriation represents 33.2 per cent of the total budget for the coming year. The 1968 defence figure, announced in October, 1967, was 13.5 per cent of the total figure.

It is the first time for three years that defence spending has gone down as a proportion of the entire budget.

The bidding:

West North East South
1 ♠ 2 ♠ 2 ♠ 2 ♠
Pass 3 ♠ Pass 4 ♠

Opening lead — king of diamonds.

The highest compliment you can pay a good bridge player is to say he sees through the backs of the cards. What this means is that he plays each hand as though he knows the location of all 52 cards, instead of only the 26 actually on view.

Of course the statement is not literally true, for the expert does occasionally founder despite his prowess, but there are many times when his performance could lead one to believe he was working with a marked deck.

For example, on this hand declarer had to function exceedingly well to make four hearts. West led the A-K-Q of diamonds, South ruffing the last one. Declarer drew two rounds of trumps, cashed the king of spades, and led another spade, on which West followed low.

Spurning the finesse, even though West had opened the bidding with a spade, declarer went up with the ace, speared the queen, and thus made the contract. Had he finessed the jack, he would have gone down one.

It does seem strange for South to refuse the finesse, since West was highly likely to have the queen. But declarer's play was eminently sound, as we shall presently see.

Let's suppose West had had the queen, which seems highly likely on the bidding. In that case, South would have played the jack next and discarded a club on it.

West would win with the queen, but any return he made would hand South the contract. West would be endplayed, since he could not afford a club return into the A-Q, while a spade return would permit declarer to discard the queen of clubs as he ruffed in dummy.

By rejecting the finesse South assured the contract if West had the queen, and at the same time assured the contract if East had the unguarded queen. The ace play gave South an extra chance to make the contract.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

FOR TOMORROW

Rely on your own efforts to get things done now. Don't depend on promises of cooperation from others, no matter how sincere they may seem — especially in the forenoon. Don't make drastic changes in projects now running smoothly, and don't launch new programs.

FOR THE BIRTHDAY

If tomorrow is your birthday, your horoscope indicates that you can make fine gains within the next year, even though you may have to work a little harder to achieve them. Use of your extraordinary intelligence and foresight should attract the attention of superiors in your occupational field and this could lead, not only to job advancement, but also to financial betterment. Best periods along the former lines: Between now and the end of March, the last week in September, the first three weeks in October, all of November (which will be an outstanding month for all Sagittarians). Propitious cycles for monetary interests: The next three and-a-half months, the first three weeks of September, all of next October and November. Those engaged in creative enterprises should do extraordinarily well this year — with notable periods of accomplishment indicated in January, May, June and September.

The latter part of this month will be noteworthy where romance is concerned; also June and late October, and those of you who are single may find yourselves altar-bound during any one of these periods. Don't put much faith in the sudden "romances" of May and/or September, however. Some misleading influences may prevail. Travel opportunities are indicated during January, the first three weeks of May, next November and December. A child born on this day will be optimistic, extremely energetic and ambitious.
